The Class of 1959 presents

the Log of the USS Eden Central

THE S. S. EDEN CENTRAL

DEDICATION

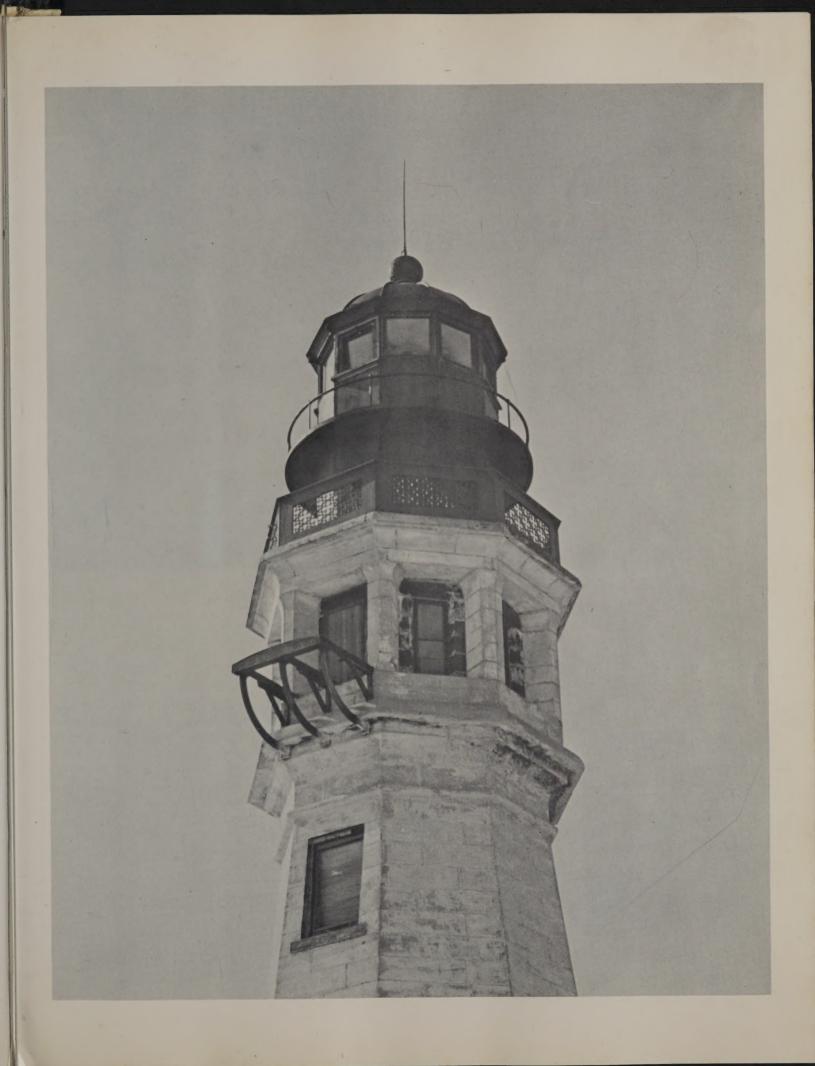

To you, Mrs. Trask, we dedicate this EMBERS as a symbol of appreciation for your guidance throughout our high school years.

As freshmen, we first experienced the senior high routine at Eden, which was also new to you. We can never forget your boundless enthusiasm, your wonderful sense of humor, and endless patience, as we toiled through English I, II, and III.

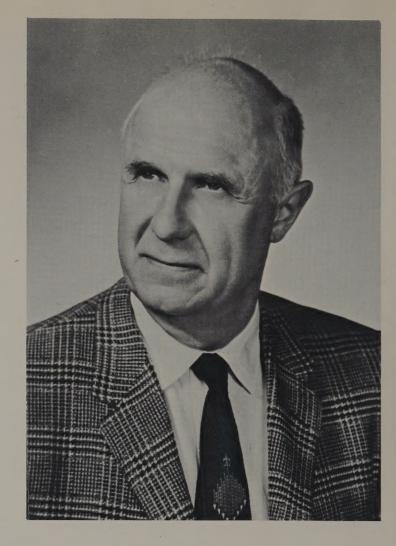

We also wish to express our gratitude for your assistance with our yearbook.

The memory of your effervescent personality will remain with us long after our departure from Eden Central.

EDWIN C. PECK Supervising Principal

Mrs. Gleason
Office Secretary

An ever-expanding Eden Central demands more and more time, initiative and patience from the men who chart the course of our school. With the precision, knowledge and sensitivity as displayed by all excellent navigators, "Admiral" Peck works tirelessly to keep the ship on course from September until the moment the students put into port in June. Although school closes at 1600, the Admiral is still on deck far into the night whenever the going gets rough and every student, without realizing, has a smoother ride because of his guiding mind and hand.

THOMAS J. COLAMONICO

High School Principal

Home y Colamone

Many of the duties which fell on the shoulders of Mr. Peck, are now being managed diligently by Vice-Admiral Colamonico, who has been aboard for the past three years. His supervision of the high school has been assumed with the ability of a good officer and through cooperation of the various commands, Eden Central School is growing in strength, scholarship, ability and leadership.

ENGLISH

Our native language is the tool basic to the achievement of all other knowledge, the means by which the daily business of our life is conducted, and the key to the best that has been thought and experienced since the beginning of our civilization. In our study of English we attempt to achieve practical skill in the use of this too, a growing knowledge of the world of literature, and an increasing appreciation of the beauties of sound and structure that are a part of our linguistic heritage.

SOCIAL STUDIES

In the age of atomic energy and of interplanetary missiles, there may be the danger that man will forget the civic virtues. Today our problems are as much social as they are scientific. It is the purpose of the Citizenship Education Department of Eden Central School to take the student from the local community on to the state and national scene, and finally to the world stage, teaching him as he goes along the tools, the knowledge, the attitudes and the understandings necessary to be a good citizen at all levels of social development.

Mr. Duffy

Mr. Pacini

MATHEMATICS

Throughout our mathematics program, an attempt is made to develop a real understanding of basic mathematical concepts, principles, and skills, so that the students may deal intelligently with the problems they meet in daily life. The more advanced courses of the senior high are such as to provide students with an adequate background for the successful continuation of mathematics and science courses in college.

Mrs. Dash

Mrs. Brenneman

Mr. Edie

Mr. Ryan

French and Latin are indispensable as an aid to the intelligent comprehension of the living world. Modern culture is a continuation of the cultures of Greece and Rome. Knowledge of past cultures is a tremendous asset in the development of a sound background for an understanding of concepts of democracy, justice, spiritual and individual liberty. The linguistic goal of foreign language is the development of the ability to think clearly and to communicate thoughts. This aim is most important to an individual in his social relationships, in his vocation and in his role as a citizen.

Mr. Calandra

SCIENCE

As a result of the recent emphasis on space travel, science education in high schools has increased greatly in importance. To meet this demand, the science department at Eden Central has added several advanced courses. Advanced Chemistry covers some college material for superior students, while Advanced Science is taught to the average student to give him a better concept of our world.

Mr. Bondi

The practical techniques of everyday vocations are offered to our school's students through our industrial arts department. Work in metal shop, wood shop, electrical shop and general shop, as well as photography and ceramics, is offered to those students who desire to start work immediately following graduation. Thusly, the school serves all in their many and varied needs.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Mr. Schmidt

ART

The art program is an attempt to expose the student to a better appreciation of what goes into art in relation to everyday life. We do not attempt to make finished artists of those who take the course, but to show what is expected of them in the art field if they desire to go on—a foundation is laid for that work. If it is to be used as a leisure pastime in later life, a foundation is established.

The commercial department provides all courses in the business field for students who wish to either work after graduation or to further their education in this field. These teachers work diligently to give the students the best qualifications so that they may go into the world with an education that will enable them to fulfill the requirements of the business world.

MUSIC.

From the junior high music classes, students gain a general knowledge of the fundamentals and history of music. The more advanced courses enable the musically inclined to train in this field. In general, the students develop an appreciation of music, which is basic for a well-rounded life.

The homemaking department trains girls in the essential practices of managing a home and raising children. Through competent instruction they gain a proper knowledge of homemaking techniques, necessary for their future life as homemakers.

DRIVER EDUCATION

Mr. Ruggles

Since the nation's highways have become likely places for accidents, it is the purpose of this department to educate beginners in safe driving habits with the hope that they will continue to drive intelligently and carefully as adults.

AGRICULTURE

Today's farming methods are becoming more highly mechanized and therefore require special training. The agriculture department trains our future farmers through practical application as well as through the regular classes. Thus they gain a good foundation for their chosen vocation.

Mr. Munger

HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

These two departments combined have the task of providing adequate recreation and training to enable each student to develop and maintain a healthy body. In physical education, games and exercise build strong bodies and promote good sportsmanship as well as provide diversion from studies. The health classes give students a basic knowledge of how the body works and how to care for it.

This year we were honored by having seven senior students win New York State Regents Scholarships. They have worked hard through the years and have received one of the greatest rewards. With these scholarships they will be able to enter any college of their choice in New York State. These people, with their talents and knowledge, will soon be leading our country in their chosen field. Paul Mostek was winner of the engineering scholarship, and Lois Schacher of the nursing scholarship. Judy Bauer, also a senior student, was the winner of the homemaking award from our school.

The music department affords one of the best means the school system has for furthering good relations between the school and the community. Public performances by music pupils have long been a main standard by which the whole school is judged.

The mixed chorus of E.C.S. has amply fulfilled its part in public performances of the past year.

The choruses, under the direction of Mrs. Gangi, play an important part in the music activities at Eden Central. The Girls' Chorus received a "B" rating at the Fredonia Music Festival last spring singing grade four music, while the Mixed Chorus received a "C" rating on their first trip. The choral arrangements for the high school production of Dickens' "Christmas Carol" were sung by the Mixed Chorus. Both choruses participated in the annual P.T.A. Christmas program.

Without a director any band would be unable to obtain the high qualities of precision, correct instrumentation, and balance. Eden Central's band director, Mr. Walter Downey, has not only guided his group of students to perfect ratings by achieving these qualities, but has also given to his students the gift of music appreciation and a deep respect for both the masters as well as composers of modern musical craftsmanship.

Woodwind, brass and percussion are the three main sections of our band. The most difficult portion of any musical work is that which contains the concurrent and continuous runs. The members of the woodwind section have worked diligently to perfect their portion in our efforts to provide Eden Central School with a grade VI, A, band. The brass section, which announces many entrances into a musical composition, and the precussion section, which provides the rhythm and tempo, work together to provide balance with the reed instruments.

CROSS COUNTRY

For the past four years, the names of six Eden harriers—Marv Horton, Chuck Vara, Art Gerspacher, Ken Franz, Bill Gerspacher, and Bob Maltby—have continuously made history in the cross-country world. These runners worked as a unit, encouraging themselves and their fellow runners as they bent their efforts toward victory. Now these six are graduating, but they have instilled the spirit that led them to honor into the younger members and Eden is looking forward to more years of accomplishment.

Perhaps the greatest honor this group brought to Eden was the establishing of a New York State public high school record by winning the sectionals four straight years, and permanently capturing a coveted trophy for this honor. They registered three perfect scores throughout the season as the Eden harriers crossed the finish line in continuous succession. At the Invitational Meet at East Aurora they again added to their annual laurels by placing third against stiff competition from the entire Western New York area, including the 25 schools, and 246 runners, with a 13:31.2 time.

Marv Horton showed marked progress this past year by breaking the school record at the Iroquois meet with a 13:31.2 time. Marv had been running about third in previous years, but by his own initiative, he set a faster pace for himself and led the pack this year in nearly every meet.

FOOTBALL

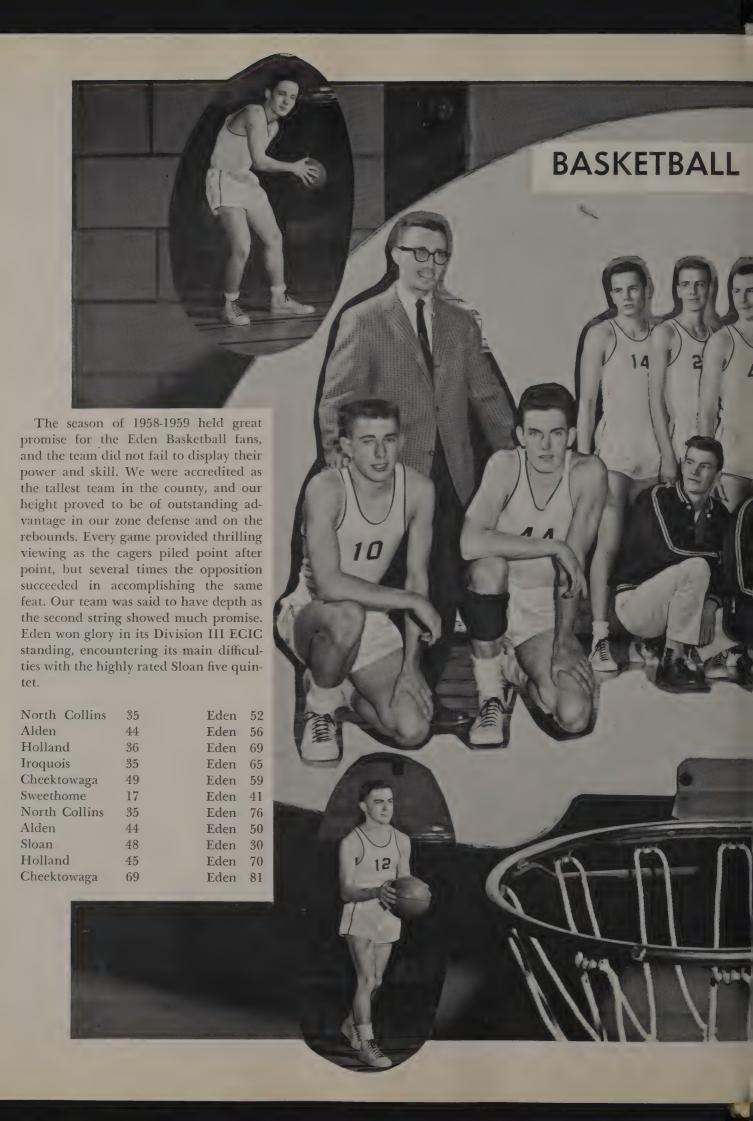

The 1958 edition of the Eden Central High football team will be remembered long for the extremes it encompassed in moving into the sectional playoff. Coach Pacini's fine qualities were clearly shown in the good sportsmanship, team spirit, and basic football exhibited by each player on every play.

The boys who played their final games of high school football are singularly honored on these pages.

JUNIOR VARSITY SPORTS

J.V. CHEERLEADERS

M. Montgomery, M. Bastian, D. Gehl, P. Gehl, M. Eckhardt, E. Holehouse.

Continued practice is required to produce an effective and well coordinated cheering squad. Our J.V. cheerleaders have worked to fulfill these qualities, and have achieved one of the most outstanding J.V. cheering squads in many years. The girls are all willing to work together, and each is willing to attempt something new, for the good of the entire squad. They will make an outstanding group of cheerleaders for the years to come.

J.V. FOOTBALL

Rough, tough, and determined was our J.V. football team for 1958. They could run as fast, hit as hard, and play as steadily as any team in the county. They were determined to win, but often there is something other than determination needed in a J.V. team. They are learning at an early age the drive, the skill, and the experience necessary to produce an effective football team, and will be ready to join with our varsity, and work to be champions.

First Row; W. Woodworth, R. Agle, J. VerHagen, P. Marrano, A. Zells, G. Price, M. Anderson, R. Hardy, D. Stegmeier, A. Meyer, J. Walker. Second Row; T. Engel, G. Machmer, E. Taft, D. Williams, J. Partridge, D. Wilson, J. Hammond, C. Colvin, J. Schmidt, R. Johnson, D. Schacher, W. Bischof, C. Jessop, T. Colamonico.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

The Athletic Council presides over the sports department in Eden Central. They are a group of teachers who coach or teach sports and student representatives who participate in these sports. This group has worked hard to provide ample opportunity for sports activities in Eden Central School.

GIRLS' AWARD CLUB

Girls, too, have an opportunity to take part in sports at Eden. They participate in intramurals after school to earn points which determine whether they win awards or not. This group is composed of those girls who have won awards for their fine job in upholding the girls' sports section at E.C.S.

VARSITY CLUB

This year we have started a new Varsity Club, a group of students who have won awards for playing E.C.I.C. sports or cheerleading. This group was organized to work under the Athletic Council so decisions can be made to please all.
